

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5 An optical connector includes a light emitting module, emitting an optical signal, an optical fiber, propagating the optical signal, and a lens sleeve, interposed between the light emitting module and the optical fiber so as to optically connect the light emitting module and the optical fiber. The light emitting module includes a light emitting element having a small emission angle.